

Steve Munsterteiger

Driver of the 1st Quarter 2011

Wilson Lines, Inc.

Steve grew up on a farm in Freeport, MN where he learned to drive. After high school he joined the army where he was a truck driver. He was stationed 1 year in Korea, 2 years in Germany and 3 years in Kansas.

After the army he went to work at Northwest Airline as baggage handler and got promoted to Equipment Service Chief. In 2005 after 18 years he got tired of handling baggage and he decided to go back to truck driving.

Steve drove for Magnum Companies as over the road driver for 1 year. Then he started working as a city and line haul driver for Madison Freight Systems. After 1 year the company got sold out and Steve lost his job. Then he worked for Caledonia Haulers pulling 'food grade' tanker. His next driving job was hauling waste for Gibson transfer.

Steve favorite activity is cooking. After 4 years of truck driving he wanted to change careers and do what he loves to do cooking. He wanted to get his education in culinary art at Le Cordon Blue College. But he decided to drive truck and keep cooking as his hobby. He joined Wilson Lines in May 2009.

Steve is single (but in a relationship) and lives in New Richmond, WI. He enjoys many outdoor activities like hunting, fishing and in the wintertime skiing. He learned skiing when he was stationed in Germany. He enjoys motorcycling and he had owned many Harleys in the last 15 years, but not now.

Steve has 7 siblings and the family gets together a lot. Everybody likes to cook so there is enough food for all 30 family members. Cooking is in the family blood.

Congratulation Steve!
